Welcome! Your participation and involvement in the learning process and class activities in highly encouraged. Not only is this part of the required curriculum competencies, but this will be an essential ingredient in your enjoyment and success in this class. This course is designed to go far beyond the mere presentation, memorization and testing of data. It will promote each student's involvement in the learning process both in and out of class. I will encourage you to take an active role by listening, reading, completing assignments and independent learning exercises, as well as participation in classroom activities. I am looking forward to a positive and mutually beneficial learning experience! Relax and enjoy!

GOVT 2306 requires college-level reading and writing skills. The minimum requirement for enrollment in GOVT 2306 include concurrent enrollment in or successful completion of ENGL 1301. If you have enrolled in this course having satisfied this prerequisite, you have a higher chance of success than students who have not done so. Please carefully read and consider the repeater policy in the HCCS Student Handbook.

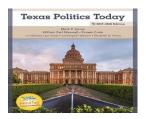

Eagle Online Canvas Learning Management System

This section of GOVT 2306 will use Fagle Online Canvas https://eagleonline.hccs.edu to supplement in-class assignments, exams, and activities. While this course is a traditional in-person class, there is a web-enhanced component to the class as the bulk of instructional material is available only on HCCS Learning Web. Very little material will be available by your instructor as a traditional hard-copy.

Instructional Materials

TEXTBOOK:

Mark P. Jones; William Earl Waxwell; Crain, Ernest. Texas Politics Today 2017-2018 (18th Edition) (Boston: Cengage, 2018).

If you purchase a new textbook, you will receive an access code for MindTap. This is not mandatory but should serve as a supplement to the learning process. There are a number of features that might be useful to you but there will be no mandate for usage or any points associated with any of the activities included. Additional information will be included on the Learning Web at a later date.

Tutoring

HCC provides free, confidential, and convenient academic support, including writing critiques, to HCC students in an online environment and on campus. Tutoring is provided by HCC personnel in order to ensure that it is contextual and appropriate. Visit the <a href="https://hcc.nutoring_bc.nutoring_hcc.n

Libraries

The HCC Library System consists of 9 libraries and 6 Electronic Resource Centers (ERCs) that are inviting places to study and collaborate on projects. Librarians are available both at the libraries and online to show you how to locate and use the resources you need. The libraries maintain a large selection of electronic resources as well as collections of books, magazines, newspapers, and audiovisual materials. The portal to all libraries' resources and services is the HCCS library web page at http://library.hccs.edu.

Supplementary Instruction

Supplemental Instruction is an academic enrichment and support program that uses peer-assisted study sessions to improve student retention and success in historically difficult courses. Peer Support is provided by students who have already succeeded in completion of the specified course, and who earned a grade of A or B. Find details at http://www.hccs.edu/resources-for/current-students/supplemental-instruction/.

COURSE DESCRIPTION: Government 2306 is one of two courses designed to introduce students to the politics of government at the national, state and local levels. This course is fully transferable to other colleges and universities. The course curriculum will include the following areas: Origin and development of the Texas Constitution, the structure and powers of state and local government, intergovernmental relations, political participation, the campaign/election process, public policy and the political culture of Texas. The course will basically be divided into three components/modules each resulting in test to evaluate learning outcomes. We will certainly address high profile current events, as well as issues related to the 86th legislative session.

The Higher Education Coordinating Board (THECB) mandates that the core curriculum must ensure that students will develop the essential knowledge and skills they need to be successful in college, in a career, in their communities, and in life. Through the Texas Core Curriculum, students will gain a foundation of knowledge of human cultures and the physical and natural world, develop principles of personal and social responsibility for living in a diverse world, and advance intellectual and practical skills that are essential for all learning. Students enrolled in GOVT 2305/2306 core curriculum courses will complete assessments designed to measure the following core objectives:

- Critical Thinking Skills—to include creative thinking, innovation, inquiry, and analysis, evaluation and synthesis of information
- o Communication Skills—to include effective development, interpretation and expression of ideas through written, oral and visual communication
- Personal Responsibility—to include the ability to connect choices, actions and consequences to ethical decision-making
- Social Responsibility—to include the ability to connect choices, actions, and consequences to ethical decision-making

Student assessment of proficiencies mandated by THECB may include testing, projects, or assignments.

Program Student Learning Outcomes (PSLOs)

- Identify and describe the institutions of the State of Texas government
- 2. Identify and evaluate information sources for political news, data, and opinion.
- 3. Analyze the effects of the historical, social, political, economic, and cultural forces on politics and government.

Course Student Learning Outcomes (CSLOs)

Upon successful completion of this course, students will:

- 1. Explain the origin and development of the Texas constitution.
- 2. Describe state and local political systems and their relationship with the federal government.
- 3. Describe separation of powers and checks and balances in both theory and practice in Texas.
- 4. Demonstrate knowledge of the legislative, executive, and judicial branches of Texas government.
- 5. Evaluate the role of public opinion, interest groups, and political parties in Texas.
- 6. Analyze the state and local election process.
- 7. Identify the rights and responsibilities of citizens.
- 8. Analyze issues, policies and political culture of Texas.

Learning Objectives: Learning Objectives for each CSLO can be found here.

Student Success

Expect to spend at least twice as many hours per week on your own in addition to the time you would normally spend during instruction. Additional time will be required for written assignments. The assignments provided will help you use your study hours wisely. Successful completion of this course requires a combination of the following:

- Reading the textbook
- Attending class in person and/or online
- Completing assignments
- Participating in class activities

There is no short cut for success in this course; it requires reading (and probably re-reading) and studying the material using the course objectives as your guide.

Instructor and Student Responsibilities

As your Instructor, it is my responsibility to:

- Provide the grading scale and detailed grading formula explaining how student grades are to be derived
- Facilitate an effective learning environment through learner-centered instructional techniques
- Provide a description of any special projects or assignments
- Inform students of policies such as attendance, withdrawal, tardiness, and make up
- Provide the course outline and class calendar which will include a description of any special projects or assignments
- Arrange to meet with individual students before and after class as required

As a student, it is your responsibility to:

- Attend class in person and/or online
- Participate actively by reviewing course material, interacting with classmates, and responding promptly in your communication with me
- Read and comprehend the textbook
- Complete the required assignments and exams
- Ask for help when there is a question or problem
- Keep copies of all paperwork, including this syllabus, handouts, and all assignments
- Be aware of and comply with academic honesty policies in the HCCS Student Handbook

TESTING: The major test will comprise the largest percentage of your grade. Each test will consist of approximately 70-80% objective involving multiple-choice questions. There will be no True/False questions. The remaining 20-30% will consist of narrative questions such as short- answer, discussion or essay questions. Every test will have a significant narrative/writing component. Some class time will be devoted to review test expectations before the first exam. Test questions will come from lecture, independent reading assignments, class discussions and other classroom activities. At a minimum, ninety percent of the test will be based on materials covered in class. This means that you will have to take individual responsibility for individual and independent preparation for some portion of the test materials. I would suggest that you maintain your class preparation activities on a systematic and consistent basis in order to be more successful on the test. Most evidence indicates that "cramming" usually does not result in a successful grade or the retention of relevant information. Just as in the nature of the course, the test will not emphasize memorization but real understanding and critical thinking. You should be prepared to apply, evaluate, and analyze in the testing process. The three tests, including the in-class critical thinking essay, will account for 62% of your final grade. It is expected that students take each test at the regularly scheduled time. If you do miss an exam, it is the responsibility of the student to contact the instructor to schedule a make-up exam. You should contact me as quickly as possible to facilitate the scheduling. You should be able to present a reasonable explanation for missing the exam. You may be asked to provide written documentation to support such reasoning. No student may take more than one make-up exam without the permission of the instructor! Since we no longer have access to the Testing Center, I cannot guarantee a guick and immediate make-up. As noted, I will give make-up exams; however, you should not take this lightly. There are certainly valid reasons for make-up exams; however, it is certainly not a good idea to choose to take a make-up. You should also note that the structure and nature of The make-up exam will be different than the original test and will become more narrative in nature with a greater emphasis on short answers and essays.

CLASS PROJECT: You should note that my grading system is comprehensive and includes a method of evaluation of each identified competency area. If test taking is not one of your strengths, you have the opportunity to improve your status in class with the other graded activities. Your chosen project will be valued at 50 points. There will be additional instructions on my Learning Web page. The project due date is Thursday-November 21, 2019. I will not accept projects after Tuesday-November 26, 2019 and there will be a 30% deduction for projects submitted late!

ASSIGNMENTS: You will be given an assignment related to each exam that will count 24 points each. These will self- paced assignments and you will have more than ample time to complete them. They will be given to you at the beginning of each section of test materials and you will turn them in on the applicable test date. They will be based on class lecture and independent reading assignments. Eleven points will be deducted for each class session the assignments are turned in late. I will not accept assignments more than one class session after their original due date except in rare and unusual circumstances. Assignments are considered late if they are turned in after I request their submission. Their primary purpose will be to assist you in the study and preparation process. This is not just busy work. They can serve as a valuable tool to get you invested in the learning process. I would suggest that you work on these on a regular and consistent basis to obtain their maximum benefit QUIZZES/ in-class activities: The purpose of the quizzes is to ensure that you come to class on time and prepared. This means that you should maintain your reading assignments according to the schedule. This is also intended to discourage the practice of "cramming" the night before the test. I want you to be a part of the class discussions and I want you to retain the material. These quizzes should facilitate this process. In the past, students have indicated that the quizzes have actually served as a helpful tool in their overall grade. They will be short and will take place at both the beginning, as well as the end of class.

If you are absent or late, you will miss the quiz. If you miss the quiz for any reason, you miss the points. There will be no make-ups. In total, there will be nine quizzes that will count 6 points each. You will be allowed to drop one quiz. If you come to class and take the quiz and leave early without notification/approval, your quiz score will not count. You will receive a zero for that particular quiz. All quizzes are unannounced and will primarily focus on the reading assignments as opposed to the materials covered in class. Some quizzes may involve in-class participatory activities and there will also be bonus quizzes and activities. Again, there are no make-ups for these quizzes. There will also be 12 point Syllabus quiz to document your understanding of the policies and procedures of HCCS, as well as those that are specific to this class.

GRADING: You will have the opportunity to earn a maximum of 482 points. Grades will be determined by the percentage of total points you earn based on the scale of 90-100%-A, 80-89%-B, 70-79%-C, 60-69%-D and 59% and below an F. The minimum number of points for each letter grade is as follows:

A-432 points... B-383 points... C-335 points... D-287 points... F- Below 286

The following is the distribution of the point system:

Test 1 100 points	Assignments72	points (15%)
Test 2100 points	Project50	points (10%)
Test. 3 (Final)100 points	Quizzes48	points (10%)
Final non comprehensive	Syllabus quiz12	points (3%)

There is no formal extra credit system in the Syllabus, but any opportunities will be announced in class

Incomplete

At least 85% of the required work in the course should have already been completed. Students granted an "I" will have until the end of the next long semester to finish the course. All "I's will convert to "F's" unless the student successfully complete all remaining work as determined by the instructor.

HCC Grading Scale can be found on this site under Academic Information:

http://www.hccs.edu/resources-for/current-students/student-handbook.

Academic Integrity

Houston Community College is committed to a high standard of academic integrity in the academic community. In becoming part of the academic community, students are responsible for honesty and independent effort. Examples of these violations include, but are not limited to, the following: Plagiarizing written work or projects, cheating on exams or assignments, collusion on an exam or project, and misrepresentation of credentials or prerequisites when registering for a course. Simply put, violations of academic integrity will NOT be tolerated.

All faculty at HCC are required to document these violations in Maxient, a system used to report any student behavior that constitutes a violation of academic integrity, triggering involvement from other appropriate departments.

Here's the link to the HCC information about academic integrity (Scholastic Dishonesty and Violation of Academic Scholastic Dishonesty and Grievance):

http://www.hccs.edu/about-hcc/procedures/student-rights-policies-procedures/student-procedures/

Attendance

Attendance is required and is taken daily (or if an online class is monitored regularly). Students who do not attend and actively participate in class will be marked as "never attended" on the official census roster, triggering an administrative withdrawal from the course. Students who are absent and/or who are not current with the required coursework will receive an Early Alert email from their professor and from an HCC adviser. The Early Alert system is designed to help students who may be facing challenges that impact their ability to succeed in class.

It is important that you come to class. Regular attendance is an important factor in your success in this class. There is a strong correlation between attendance and student success. You are expected to attend on a regular basis and you are still responsible for the information that you missed. Since we sometimes go beyond the textbook in class, the information that is discussed in class is important in the learning process. If you miss any class, you are responsible for all material missed. It is a good idea to find a friend or a buddy in class who would be willing to share class notes/ discussions or be able to assist you in some other way if you unavoidably miss a class. Also, you can always visit during my office hours to "catch up" on the material you missed. Please note that you should contact me directly to schedule a make-up exam.

EGLS³

The EGLS³ (Evaluation for Greater Learning Student Survey System) will be available for most courses near the end of the term until finals start. This brief survey will give invaluable information to your faculty about their teaching. Results are anonymous and will be available to faculty and division chairs after the end of the term. EGLS³ surveys are only available for the Fall and Spring semesters. EGLS3 surveys are not offered during the Summer semester due to logistical constraints.

Housing and Food Assistance for Students

Any student who faces challenges securing their foods or housing and believes this may affect their performance in the course is urged to contact the Dean of Students at their college for support. Furthermore, please notify the professor if you are comfortable in doing so. This will enable HCC to provide any resources that HCC may possess.
