Welcome and Instructor Information

What's Exciting About This Course

This course is exciting because the Department of English helps students find and develop their authentic voices, establish political power, and create social capital. We teach critical thinking, close reading, and analysis. We coach students on the rhetoric of messaging with consideration of purpose and audience. We support them as they craft their own narratives. We turn thoughts into words, ideas into interpretations, ambiguity into translation, and silence into voice.

My Personal Welcome

Welcome to the course! You will participate in class discussions and collaborate with peers to develop stronger reading and writing techniques. I look forward to a great semester!

Faculty Statement about Student Success

To succeed in college, students need to work hard, participate, and submit work on time. Pay attention, listen carefully, and ask questions. Listen and be respectful to other students' contributions. Create a good learning environment. Turn off cell phones or use vibrate mode for emergencies. Do not text during class. Concentrate. Use English only in class time and sit next to someone who doesn't speak your language. Do your own work and learn. Copying from the internet and other sources is not learning.

In this course, we share in the creation and maintenance of a positive and safe learning environment. Part of this process includes acknowledging and embracing the differences among us in order to establish and reinforce that each one of us matters. I appreciate your suggestions about how to best maintain this environment of respect.
