What is Grisaille?

The French word “grisaille” means “gray tones” and is essentially a monochromatic painting executed in gray tones ranging from dark to light.

So why do a Grisaille?

This technique was used by many of the Old Masters, including Rembrandt, to achieve a sculptural form using various shades of gray as tonal values.

For painters of all skill levels, a grisaille will help you translate the subject matter into form without the complications of color.

Renaissance artists often used grisaille as a classicizing effect, trying to capture the 3D form of sculpture.

In addition, the Grisaille will assist you in modeling with even more authority as you develop a deeper understanding of the spatial structures you see.

of highlights and shadows.

Step 3: Create Underpainting with Burnt Sienna

- Apply thin layer of burnt sienna with glazing medium
- Build up your values by layering the burnt sienna glazes on top of one another. Remove the burnt sienna to lighter/high key values.
