Course Overview

Course Description

PSYC 2314 is a study of social, emotional, cognitive and physical factors and influences of a developing human from conception to death. (PSYC 2314 is included in the Psychology Field of Study.)

Prerequisites

The minimum requirements for enrollment in PSYC 2314 are as follows: (1) completed and passed PSYC 2301; (2) and satisfied the requirements for college-level reading and writing skills (or take INRW 0420 or ESOL 0360 as a co-requisite). If you have enrolled in this course without having satisfied these prerequisites, you are at higher risk of failure or withdrawal than students who have done so, and you should carefully read and consider the repeater policy in the HCC Student Handbook.

Department Website

Psychology Department \(https://www.hccs.edu/programs/areas-of-study/social--behavioral-sciences/psychology/\)

Core Curriculum Objectives (CCOs)

PSYC 2301, 2314, 2316, and 2319 satisfy the social science requirement in the HCC core curriculum. PSYC 2317 satisfies the mathematics requirement in the HCC core curriculum. The HCC Psychology Program Committee has specified that these courses address the following core objectives:

- Critical Thinking. Students will demonstrate the ability to engage in inquiry and analysis, evaluation and synthesis of information, and creative thinking by completing a written assignment such as a book report, research paper, or essay.
- Communication Skills. Students will demonstrate effective development, interpretation and expression of ideas through written, oral, and visual communication by completing a written assignment such as a book report, research paper, or essay.
- Quantitative and Empirical Literacy. Students will demonstrate the ability to draw conclusions based on the systematic analysis of topics using observation, experiment, and/or numerical skills by completing textbook reading assignments, completing assignments, and answering questions on quizzes and exams.
- Social Responsibility. Students will demonstrate cultural self-awareness, intercultural competency, civil knowledge, and the ability to engage effectively in regional, national, and global communities by completing textbook reading assignments, completing assignments, and answering questions on quizzes and exams.

Course Student Learning Outcomes (CSLOs)

Upon completion of PSYC 2314, students will be able to

1. Define the major questions addressed by developmental science and the methods that developmental psychologists use to answer them.
2. Explain the biosocial, cognitive and psychological influences throughout the lifespan as an ongoing set of processes, involving both continuity and change.
3. Describe the different developmental perspectives of the major theories of development (i.e. cognitive, learning, humanistic and psychodynamic).
4. Describe changes in the nervous, endocrine, reproductive, sensory, cardiovascular, skeletal, muscular, and immune systems that occur from conception through late adulthood.
5. Describe the stages of the developing person at different periods of the life span from birth to death.
6. Discuss the social, political, economic, and cultural forces that affect the development process of the individual.
7. Identify factors of responsible personal behavior with regard to issues such as sexual activity, substance abuse, marriage and parenting.
8. Identify examples of some of the cultural and ethnic differences that influence development throughout the lifespan.
9. Discuss the various causes or reasons for disturbances in the developmental process.

Learning Objectives

Learning Objectives for each CSLO can be found at Learning Objectives for PSYC 2314

Departmental Practices and Procedures

Succeeding in PSYC Courses

Expect to spend at least twice as many hours per week outside of class as you do in class studying the course content. Additional time will be required for written assignments. The assignments provided will help you use your study hours wisely. Successful completion of this course requires a combination of the following:

- Reading the textbook
- Attending class in person and/or online
- Completing assignments
- Participating in class activities

There is no short cut for success in this course; it requires reading (and probably re-reading) and studying the material using the course objectives as your guide.

Instructor and Student Responsibilities

As your Instructor, it is my responsibility to:

- Provide the grading scale and detailed grading formula explaining how student grades are to be derived
- Facilitate an effective learning environment through learner-centered instructional techniques
- Provide a description of any special projects or assignments
- Inform students of policies such as attendance, withdrawal, tardiness, and make up
- Provide the course outline and class calendar which will include a description of any special projects or assignments
- Arrange to meet with individual students before and after class as required

As a student, it is your responsibility to:

- Attend class in person and/or online
- Participate actively by reviewing course material, interacting with classmates, and responding promptly in your communication with me
- Read and comprehend the textbook
- Complete the required assignments and exams
- Ask for help when there is a question or problem
- Keep copies of all paperwork, including this syllabus, handouts, and all assignments
- Be aware of and comply with academic honesty policies in the HCCS Student Handbook

Department Attendance Policies

Official Date of Enrollment (OE Day)

In order to remain enrolled in a course, students must be in attendance on or before OE Day. OE Day varies depending on term length. The date is noted in the HCC Academic Calendar and in the Course Calendar in every psychology instructor's syllabus.

OE Day Attendance Report

HCC policy requires that instructors submit attendance reports for all enrolled students on or the day after OE Day. The report is a legal document that must be an accurate accounting of student attendance regardless of the "excused" or "unexcused" nature of students' absences (see HCC Student Handbook for definitions of excused and unexcused absences).

Psychology Department Definition of Attendance

For purposes of the required OE Day attendance report, the HCC psychology department defines attendance as follows:

1. In-person class: Presence in at least one on-campus class session on or before OE Day AND completion of any Canvas assignments due on or before OE day
2. Hybrid class: Presence in at least one on-campus class session on or before OE Day AND completion of any Canvas assignments due on or before OE day
3. Online on a Schedule: Presence in at least one virtual class session on or before OE Day AND completion of any Canvas assignments due on or before OE day
4. Online Anytime: Documented activity in Canvas on or before OE Day AND completion of any Canvas assignments due on or before OE day

Students' Responsibility to Contact Instructor or Department

Students who have documentation of a circumstance that prevents them from fulfilling OE Day attendance requirements must notify their instructors or the psychology department on or before OE day. At the discretion of the instructor and/or psychology department chair, such notification may or may not be deemed to fulfill the OE Day attendance requirement.

Canvas Activity after Submission of OE Day Attendance Report

Canvas activity on the part of a student who was reported as never attended that occurs after the instructor's attendance report has been submitted does not count as attendance. Canvas assignments submitted after submission of the report do not count for course credit in current or future courses.

Withdrawal of Non-Attending Students

Upon receipt of OE Day attendance reports, HCC enrollment officials will withdraw students from courses in which they are reported as never attended. Such withdrawals will alter students' course schedules in the PeopleSoft Student System.

Termination of Access to Canvas

Withdrawn students' access to Canvas courses will terminate shortly after the PeopleSoft withdrawal takes place via synchronization of PeopleSoft and Canvas student rosters. Withdrawn students' Canvas activity that occurs between the date on which the OE Day attendance report was submitted and such students' loss of access to Canvas does not count as attendance. Canvas assignments submitted during this period do not count for course credit in current or future courses.

Instructor-Specific Attendance Policies

Each psychology instructor's syllabus includes an attendance policy that addresses attendance expectations before and after OE day. Instructors' attendance criteria may exceed those of the department definition above. Students are required to know and abide by their instructors' attendance policies. Instructors may modify their attendance policies at any time during the semester and will provide students with written notification via email or Canvas announcement whenever such changes are made.

Questions about Attendance Policies

Students who have questions about attendance should contact their instructors. Students are further advised to consult the HCC Student Handbook for a complete description of college attendance policies.

Department Late Submissions Policy

Each instructor's syllabus includes policies addressing late and missing assignments. Students are required to know and abide by all such policies and all assignment due dates in the instructor's Course Calendar. Instructors are under no obligation to accept late submissions or to re-open Canvas assignments.

Additional Information

Psychology Program Information

Visit the Psychology Program Pages on the HCC Learning Web for information about our faculty and courses. You will also find information about majoring in psychology.

Psychology Field of Study

The Field of Study curriculum for Psychology is an 18-credit-hour set of lower division courses that must be applied to a bachelor's degree in Psychology, regardless of degree designation. If a student successfully completes a field of study for an established degree program, the student may transfer that block of courses for full academic credit. The transferred field of study courses must be substituted for the receiving institution's lower-division requirements for the discipline degree program into which the student transfers. If a student completes only part of the field of study, then credit for those courses must also apply toward the major.

The HCC Psychology Department has established a Fund of Excellence with the HCC Foundation. The purpose of this fund is to support the mission of the Psychology Department and HCC Psychology students. The funds supports a range of initiatives to improve the academic success of our Psychology students during their time at HCC, such as assisting students with partial support for the national membership fee for Psi Beta (see above) and other program expenses. Students may request support from the Psychology Fund of Excellence by contacting the Psychology Department Chair, Dr. Karen P. Saenz (karen.saenz@hccs.edu).
