

Instructor: Ker-Jen Wu

Email: HCCMacro@hotmail.com

Econ 2302 – Micro Economics Fall, 2016

Textbook- Principles of Economics, N. Gregory Mankiw, seventh edition

Department of Economics

3214 Austin St, EDC Bldg., Rm A229

Houston, TX 77004

Economics Department Office: 713-718-7638

Course Description

This course is an introduction to microeconomics. It covers the principles of economics-the study of how households and firms manages its limited resources and how households and firms get the most it can from its resources. The course emphasizes the study of how households and firms make decisions and how they interact in specific markets.

Course Requirement and Grading

There are two tests (including final) in this course and each test will weight equally. Student attendance, homework assignments, cooperation and participation are required. All students are expected to arrive on time and stay the entire class; class will start on time and no food allowed during class. All students are required to have the paper textbook (no electronic book allowed). You are not allowed to take this class without textbook. Exam schedules and chapters included for each test will be announced in class prior to test date.

Test and course Grading: A=90-100, B=80-89, C=70-79, F= any score below 70

Chapters to be covered: Chapters 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 13, 7, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18 and 21.

Chapters that may be covered if time allows: Chapters 8-12 might be covered.

Chapters to be covered during the semester may subject to change depends on the class progress at instructor's discretion.

The knowledge you are going to learn from this course will benefit the rest of your life. I expect a fun and exciting semester and look forward to working with each of you. Enjoy the semester and good luck to you all!