What's Exciting About This Course

The Department of English helps students find and develop their authentic voices, establish political power, and create social capital. We teach critical thinking, close reading, and analysis. We coach students on the rhetoric of messaging with consideration of purpose and audience. We support them as they craft their own narratives. We turn thoughts into words, ideas into interpretations, ambiguity into translation, and silence into voice.

My Personal Welcome

Welcome to English 1301! During this course, I hope that you will become better writers, readers, and critical thinkers. Everyone in the class has some knowledge or perspective to share that is unique, and thus, everyone has some knowledge or perspective to learn. Learning involves sharing ideas as well as being receptive to other people's ideas. It is important to make learning your responsibility by actively attending class, reading all required materials, participating in class activities, completing assignments by the deadlines, checking emails often, and meeting other course requirements. Hopefully, you'll discover that learning involves exploration and sharing and that it can be enjoyable.

Please feel free to contact me concerning any problems that you are experiencing in this course. Your performance in this class is very important to me. I am available to hear your concerns or to discuss course topics. Please also take advantage of the tutoring, library, and counseling services available to you; information about services is provided in this syllabus.

Preferred Method of Contact

Department-Specific Instructor and Student Responsibilities

As your Instructor, it is my responsibility to:

- Provide the grading scale and detailed grading formula explaining how student grades are to be calculated
- Facilitate an effective learning environment through class activities, discussions, and lectures
- Provide a description of any assignments
- Inform students of policies
- Provide the course outline and class calendar that will include a description of assignments

As a student, it is your responsibility to:

- Attend class and participate in class discussions and activities

- Complete the required assignments
- Ask for help when there is a question or problem
- Keep copies of all documents, including this syllabus, handouts, and all assignments
- Be aware of and comply with academic honesty policies, including plagiarism, in the HCCS Student Handbook

Program-Specific Student Success Information

As with any three-hour course, expect to spend at least six hours per week outside of class reading and studying the material. I will provide assignments to help you use those six hours per week wisely. Additional time will be required for written assignments. Successful completion of this course requires a combination of reading the textbook, attending class, completing assignments in Eagle Online, and participating in class discussions. There is no short cut for success in this course; it requires reading (and probably re-reading) and studying the material using the course objectives as your guide.

Instructional Materials and Resources

* Instructor's Practices and Procedures

Missed Assignments/Make-Up Policy/Late Work Policy

Major essays (the final drafts of Essay #1, Essay #2, and Essay #3) may be submitted late unless stated otherwise, but late submissions will be penalized 10 points for each calendar day they are late. A final draft of an essay that is more than a week late will not be accepted for credit.

The Final Project and Other Work such as quizzes, exams, discussions, rough drafts, worksheets, exercises, and other assignments may be submitted up to three days late for partial credit. Late submissions will be penalized 10 points for each calendar day they are late. Submissions that are more than three days late will not be accepted for credit. Take responsibility as a college student if you miss an assignment. Learn from the experience and work to submit the rest of the assignments on time.

Work for bonus assignments may not be submitted late for credit.

Work must be complete and submitted by the deadline to be considered on time. If part(s) of a work for an assignment is submitted late, then the whole work for the assignment is considered late.

Incomplete Policy

Incompletes are given at the discretion of the instructor. In all cases, the instructor reserves the right to decline a student's request to receive a grade of Incomplete.

Academic Integrity

A student who is scholastically dishonest is, by definition, not showing that the coursework has been learned, and that student is claiming an advantage not available to other students. The instructor is responsible for measuring each student's individual achievements and for ensuring that all students compete on a level playing field. Thus, in our system, the instructor has teaching, grading, and enforcement roles. You are expected to be familiar with the HCC's policy on Academic Honesty or Scholastic Dishonesty found in the catalog or student handbook. What that means is that if you are charged with an offense, pleading ignorance of the rules will not help you. Students are responsible for conducting themselves with honor and integrity in fulfilling course requirements. Scholastic dishonesty includes, but is not limited to cheating, plagiarism, and collusion.

Scholastic dishonesty is a serious offense. For example, copying even just one sentence or phrase without properly citing the source is plagiarism. Copying ideas and not properly citing the source is plagiarism. Mosaic plagiarism or patchwriting is a form of scholastic dishonesty. Reusing work or parts of work submitted to another class, institution, publication, or other venue is considered a form of scholastic dishonesty. Another form of scholastic dishonesty involves fraudulent research, which includes but is not limited to creating citations for nonexistent sources, using citations for different sources than the ones actually used, or including citations for sources that were not used. Take pride and responsibility in doing your own work. Create your own original work that contains your own ideas, word choices, and phrasing. To be accepted, all papers require proof of their development.

Just so there is no misunderstanding, cheating, plagiarism, collusion, and other forms of scholastic dishonesty will not be tolerated. Possible punishments for scholastic dishonesty may include a grade of 0 or F for the particular assignment, an F for the course, a referral to the appropriate Dean of Student Services, and/or recommendation for probation or dismissal from the college system.

Here is the link to the HCC information about academic integrity (Scholastic Dishonesty and Violation of Academic Scholastic Dishonesty and Grievance):

Attendance Procedures

Attendance, preparedness, and participation are essential for your success in this course. According to HCC policy, all students are expected to attend classes regularly. A student should not miss more than 12.5% of class hours, which is equivalent to 6 hours of class. Students in HCC Online on a Schedule courses must log in their online class and attend the class during the scheduled class period. Students must attend and actively participate, or they will be marked as absent. Logging into an online course without active participation is considered not attending. Students who do not attend and actively participate by completing an assignment on the course website before the Official Day of Record may be automatically withdrawn from the class.

Just like an on-campus class, your regular participation is required. You should log in daily and actively participate by completing course work by the assigned deadlines. You should understand that your ability to do the work required in the class will be impaired and your grade will suffer as a result of excessive absences or failure to actively and regularly participate. If you do not attend class and actively participate at least twice a week, you will be counted as absent for that week. HCC does not differentiate between excused and unexcused absences. If a student has excessive absences, excused or unexcused, or if the student does not actively and regularly participate, the student may be withdrawn from the course or given an F or FX at the instructor's discretion. If students stop attending the class, it is their responsibility to formally withdraw themselves.

An absence is not an excuse for missing a due date or for being unprepared for the next assignments. When you miss class by not logging in, you are still responsible for learning the course materials and completing assignments. Keep in mind that whatever the reason for your absence, you will still miss important course work. You are responsible for all assignments. If an assignment is due on the day that you miss by not logging in, the assignment is still due; the assignment deadline does not change for you. Please read the course calendar and materials on the course web site and meet deadlines.

Student Conduct

Our shared responsibility is to develop and maintain a positive learning environment for everyone. As the professor, I take this responsibility seriously and will inform members of the class if their behavior makes it difficult to carry out this task. As a fellow learner, you are asked to respect the learning needs of your classmates and to assist me in achieving this critical goal. Please be respectful and courteous to everyone in the class.

All students in HCC courses are required to follow all HCC Policies & Procedures, the Student Code of Conduct, the Student Handbook, and relevant sections of the Texas Education Code when interacting and communicating in a physical classroom or a virtual classroom with their professor and fellow students. Students who violate these policies and guidelines will be subject to disciplinary action that could include denial of access to course-related resources or even removal from the class.

Instructor's Course-Specific Information

For the best chance of success, you should follow the weekly schedule and read the online texts, study the course materials, and complete the assigned work. I encourage you to complete all readings and assignments on time. Missing assignments can severely affect your grade. All major assignments, such as essays and the final project, must be completed to pass the course. Specific assignment requirements are provided in Eagle Online Canvas. The following are some general assignment policies.

- In order to improve our writing skills, we must practice writing. Therefore, all of your work, including essays should be written by you specifically for this class; essays or sections of essays (or any work) should not have been submitted to another class, institution, publication, or other venue that is not for this class. Credit will not be given for work that has been submitted to another class, institution, publication, or other venue that is not for this class.
- Please carefully meet assignment requirements outlined in this syllabus, listed in the assignment documents, and discussed in class. Work that is off-topic or does not meet assignment requirements may not be accepted, may not earn credit, or may have points deducted at the instructor's discretion. For example, an essay that falls short of word count requirements or does not meet source requirements may earn zero credit.
- The instructor reserves the right to not accept work that does not meet requirements; such work may earn zero credit. At the instructor's discretion, the instructor may require students to revise and resubmit work. Students who submit required revisions within the required time frame may earn partial credit on the assignment; students who chose not to submit required revisions may earn zero credit for the assignment. Work that involves academic dishonesty (e.g., plagiarism) may not be revised or resubmitted for credit.

- In order to earn credit, essays require proof of their development. Students are required to complete assignments and exercises that support essays. For example, a stepping-stone assignment may be a worksheet with questions that help students generate ideas for an essay.
- In order to earn credit for discussions on the online discussion forum, students must post responses to the discussion prompt before viewing other students' responses. Students who post blank responses and/or view other students' responses before posting their own responses to the discussion prompt may not earn credit for the discussion.
- All work must be submitted to the required location by the deadline or late deadline (see late work policy) to earn credit. Pay careful attention to the assignment instructions for submission directions.
- All work must be submitted in the following file format unless stated otherwise on the assignment: MS Word .doc or .docx. Work submitted in other file formats may not be graded and may not earn credit. HCC students may get MS Word for free through their HCC student webmail.
- All work must be typed and in MLA format unless stated otherwise on the assignment. Submissions that are not typed and/or are not in MLA format may not be accepted, may earn zero credit, or may have points deducted.
- Essays that use sources must be accompanied by in-text citations in MLA format, a works cited page in MLA format, and copies of all sources with required highlighting in order for the essays to receive credit. More information is provided in the assignment instructions.
- All major essays must be submitted to Turnitin through Eagle Online Canvas to earn credit. The Turnitin submission space is incorporated in our course website, so you do not need to register for Turnitin. When you submit an essay to Turnitin in Eagle Online Canvas, a confirmation email will be sent to your HCC student email address; if you do not receive the email, the essay has not been successfully submitted.

Computer Literacy and Technical Requirements

This is an online class, so access to a computer with an internet connection is essential. Students are expected to be familiar with basic telecommunication skills, such as navigating the web, sending and receiving email, posting and receiving electronic files, participating in discussions, and using online testing procedures. A "sick" or "broken" personal computer and/or personal internet connection problems are not excuses to delay or skip assignments. Travelling to a place with no internet connection is also not an excuse to delay or skip assignments. Computers are available at HCC computer labs, HCC libraries, and some public libraries. Instructors are not required to give consideration for lost, missing, or unacceptable work stemming from technical non-compliance and/or end-user technical issues. The course website is on Eagle Online Canvas, and students are expected to be technically compliant, including but not limited to using the required internet browser, using required software, and using a stable internet connection.

Faculty-Specific Information Regarding Canvas

This course section will use Eagle Online Canvas (<https://eagleonline.hccs.edu> (<https://eagleonline.hccs.edu>)).
